(Table showing the performance of Egyptian sovereign sukuk on 04/09/2026)

Egyptian sovereign Sukuk experienced limited selling pressure during the period from 28 August to 4 September 2026, reflected in lower Sukuk prices and higher yields. The price of the (April 2029 maturity)Sukuk declined from $100.48 to $ 100.34, while its yield increased from 6.27% to 6.33%. Similarly, the price of the (October 2032 maturity) Sukuk decreased from $ 105.00 to $ 104.85, with its yield rising from 7.05% to 7.07%.

This performance came amid the impact of the release of U.S. labor market data for August 2026, published by the U.S. Bureau of Labor Statistics (BLS) on Friday, (04/09/2026). The report showed the addition of 162,000 jobs, significantly exceeding expectations of approximately 56,000 jobs, while the unemployment rate remained unchanged at 4.1%. July's payroll figure was also revised upward to 21,000 jobs .[3]

The stronger-than-expected labor market data reinforced expectations of a more restrictive U.S. monetary policy stance, with increased market expectations regarding the Federal Reserve's interest-rate decision at its September meeting. This was also reflected in movements in U.S. Treasury yields .

Consequently, the rise in U.S. yields put pressure on global fixed -income instruments, including Egyptian sovereign Sukuk, as higher global benchmark yields contributed to the decline in Sukuk prices and the corresponding increase in their yields during the week.
